

Labour History

The journal of Labour and Social History

The premier outlet for refereed, scholarly articles in the fields of social and labour history in Australasia, examining issues such as labour politics, trade unions, management labour practices, co-operatives, gender and ethnicity.

The interdisciplinary nature of labour history, and its acceptance of less traditional sources, including folklore and oral testimony, make it a fascinating field, alive to past and present social justice issues.

Recommend a subscription to your librarian

Most read articles

- » 'Introduction: New Essays on Women's Labour History in Europe: Gender, Work and Activism' by Leda Papastefanaki and Eszter Varsa
- » 'The Maritime Labour Market and the Appearance and Disappearance of Women as Dock Labour in Spanish Ports c. 1870–1930s' by Jordi Ibarz and Mònica Borrell-Cairol
- » 'Cécile Brunshvicg (1877–1946) and the Politics of Women's Work in France, Europe and Beyond' by Anne Cova

Submit your work

Refereed articles should engage theoretically and empirically with workers and their workplaces, shed light on social and economic issues of significance for workers, or offer illuminating insights by taking a global, regional or transnational perspective on labouring history in any of its forms. As well as scholarly articles, Labour History also publishes essays, reviews, and memoirs that reflect the involvement of labour historians in the making of history.

Abstracting and Indexing

Labour History is abstracted and indexed in Cabell's Whitelist, MLA International Bibliography, Scopus, and Web of Science's Social Sciences Citation Index (SSCI).

Submit your work

Read a FREE issue

